

Abstract Of The Disclosure

A method and a device for improving the visibility in a motor vehicle, at least one infrared sensor of the motor vehicle producing a sensor signal when a person is situated in the area illuminated by the light source, and the light source being 5 controlled dependent on the sensor signal.